The Mule is Dead.

With regret that we chronicle the death of the little yellow mule, which up to a recent date, carried the U. S. Mail between this point and Burke's Garden, "Jack" if we remember correctly, was raised by Capt. G. S. Gilderleeve, on Clear Fork. He was known far and wide for his splendid saddle qualities. Few horses there were who could leave "Jack" on the road when he was at his best, and none carried the rider easier. "Jack" like most of his race, had his tricks. More than once he has landed his rider plump in the road, with an ease and grace, then looked so meek afterwards that you felt sure it was an accident, and that no harm was meant. However, his life was exemplary one, (for a mule), and now that he is gone, we throw the mantle of charity over his misdeeds and failures. We hope he had an easy death, and a decent burial, and that his bones were not left to bleach on the bleak mountain side, nor his carcass given to the vultures and the croaking ravens of the woods. Peace to his dust!

Thankful words written by Mrs. Ada E. Hart, of Groton, S. D. "Was taken with a bad cold which settled on my lungs, cough set in and finally terminated in consumption. Four doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Savior, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial, took in all eight bottles. It has cured me and thank God, I am saved and now a well and healthy woman." Trial bottles free at Jno. E. Jackson's Drug Store. Regular size 50c, and $1.00. Guaranteed or price refunded.

Bonny Happenings.
Mrs. A. B. Buchanan is still confined to her room. Her brother and sister, R. C. Chapman and Mrs. J. B. Boyer, were over to see her Tuesday. Mrs. Boyer will remain with her sister for a few days.

Miss Mary Faulkner, Elizabeth Matthews and J. B. Witten's children, all of whom were very ill last week are much improved at present.

Mrs. Milton Thompson has been suffering from a severe attack of quinsy, but after having her throat lanced twice, is much improved.

Mrs. R. H. Matthews' baby which was so ill last week, is much better.

Miss Mattie Crabtree who has been teaching school for several months, returned home last week.

In spite of the bad weather the High School is progressing nicely. While it is with regret that we have to give up Miss Ella Clayton as teacher, it is with pleasure that we can soon welcome Miss Faulkner back to her department.

Mr. J. L. Matthews has just taken the mail contract from this place to Tazewell for another four years.

Volcanic Eruptions.
Are grand, but skin eruptions rob life of joy. Bucklen's Arnica Salve cures them, also Old Running and Fever Sores, Ulcers, Boils, Felons, Corns, Warts, Oint, Bruises, Burns, Scalds, Chapped Hands, Chills, Best Pile cure on earth—Drives out Painful Aches. Only 25c. at Jno. E. Jackson, Druggist.

Coasting Casualties.
There was a large coasting party on the lot of Capt. John D. Alexander on Tuesday night, which resulted in a number of casualties, one at least, of which proved very serious. Herbert McCall, eldest son of Jno. McCall and grandson of T. M. Hawkins, Sr., had his leg severely fractured between the knee and ankle. His foot in some manner, was caught under his sled, and before he could stop his leg was badly broken. He was taken at once to the office of Dr. R. B. Gillespie, where the necessary medical and surgical aid was rendered. Mr. and Mrs. McCall have the sympathy of the community. Within the past few years several of their children have had similar misfortunes. Several of their children have had bones broken—some of them more than once. Only a few weeks ago, Herbert McCall, whose leg was broken Tuesday night, was accidentally shot in the face by one of his fellow students, which came very near ending seriously.

There were a number of minor casualties Tuesday night, such as scratched faces &c. The party returning from the sport looked as though they had been attending an "Irish Wake."

"A Little Court of Yesterday."

By Minnie Reid French.
Is a novel of the theme of which relates to the present situation of the so-called "aristocracy" of old Virginia. It abounds in humor, is written in an easy, flowing style, and is altogether a departure from the conventional Southern story. It can be clearly seen that Mrs. French, being of Virginia ancestry herself, inherits a sympathy for the broken idols and old traditions so dear to the Southern hearts, and often a smile and a tear. The story has for its setting an old historic mansion of Colonial type, and running through the pages is an undercurrent, there is a low-key which reaches its climax in the chapter. The book is unusually dainty and attractive.

The above book, cloth bound, one dollar, can be obtained from Messrs. Bloch and Company, Keystone, Va. It is published at one dollar. If any difficulty in procuring it, The Abbey Press, Publishers, 114 Fifth Avenue, New York (who always issue interesting books) will send it post paid for the price.

Persons who suffer from indigestion cannot expect to live long, because they cannot eat the food required to nourish the body and the products of the undigested food they do eat poison the blood. It is important to cure indigestion as soon as possible, and the best method of doing this is to use the preparation known as Kodoi Dyspepsia Cure. It digests what you eat and restores all the digestive organs to perfect health. Jno. E. Jackson.

The Crime of the Century.

The history of the world may be searched in vain for a parallel to the spirit of savagery which inflicted upon a defeated and impoverished people the unspeakably barbarous rule of a servile race just liberated from bondage. Negro suffrage was a crime against the white people of the South. It was a crime against the blacks of the South. It was a crime against the whole citizenship of the republic. Political power never was conferred upon a race so poorly equipped to exercise it.

Negro suffrage, accompanied as it was by the scoundrelly leadership of carpet-baggers and supported as it was by military rule, subjected the States lately in rebellion to an experience more dreadful than the paralysis of war and defeat. Upon an already impoverished society it brought the scourge of a rule that was in some respects worse than barbaric, for it had all the elements of savagery under the leadership of men who had learned from civilization the arts of corruption and misrule.

The eight or ten years of negro domination in various Southern States did more harm than the war had done. It prostrated industry, it destroyed public and private credit, and it threatened for a time to resolve society into its original factors and to re-establish conditions which were thought to obtain only in the wilderness.

The effects of this "hideous debacle" upon the blacks was quite as demoralizing as it was upon the whites. At a time when they should have been impressed with the responsibilities which freedom had put upon them they were incited to orgies of injustice and pillage by charlatans bent only on plunder. At a time when they should have been instructed in self-restraint and made ready for a gradual enfranchisement they were taught only by an example of license.

It has required a generation to remove from the minds of even the best informed among the negroes of the South the effects of the evil influences under which the race began its career of freedom. Many generations will have come and gone before all of the consequences of this stupendous Republican mistake shall have been removed.

The above is not the utterance of an unprejudiced rebel editor. It is not the effusion of some Southern blood in "the saddle." It is not the outpouring of a "negro hater." It is taken from the editorial columns of the Chicago Chronicle, one of the most influential papers in the State of Abraham Lincoln. It has taken a third of a century for the intelligent Northern editor to find out that a crime has been committed against the white people of the South, but late as it is it is gratifying to know that there is at least one editor in the North who has sufficient sense of justice to acknowledge that the North has dealt unjustly with the South.—Roanoke Times.

Death of a Lovable Woman.

Wytheville, Va., Feb. 2.—After a lingering illness of some stomach complications, Miss Sarah McGavock died at the home of her sister, Mrs. John H. Fulton, in this place, this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The interment will take place at the old McGavock homestead, Fort Chiswell, Tuesday morning. The deceased was about 50 years old. She leaves two sisters—Mrs. Fulton and Maggie McGavock. She was a most lovable Christian woman.

Revivals.

"Revivals of religion are an absolute necessity for the life of the church."—Midland Methodist.

The above is an assertion which seems to do away with all other methods of preserving the life of the church. I do not believe that these spasmodical and periodical revivals of religion are God's established method of saving souls—they are man made institutions; but we have to admit that God blesses them often, to the salvation of souls. I am reminded of an incident which occurred in the earthly life of our Savior. On one occasion the Jews came to Him with a question relative to a marriage law, and His reply was: "Moses gave you that law on account of the hardness of your hearts," but he added, "It was not so from the beginning." I believe that God not only occasionally blesses these means, but they have in part His sanction, as that law of Moses had, for the Creator knows, that in the present condition of the churches generally, there would be very few souls saved but for this agency. God says, "Behold now is the day of salvation," but it often seems as though in this day the ministry and the church says there are periodical times for salvation, in them come and be healed, and not on the preaching of Sabbath days.

Which is right, God or man? It is very probable that Martin Luther, John Wesley, John Knox, George Whitfield and a score of others in the centuries past, as well as Spurgeon, Moody, Phillips Brooks and many more during the century just closed, scarcely ever preached a sermon but what many were convicted of their sins and some converted. But what is the matter with the ministry and the church of today, when in thousands of Christian churches it would be a novelty to hear of a soul being saved through the ordinary Sabbath day preaching? How and why is this? Has the gospel as preached by Paul, or as preached by any of the above named deceased ministers of the gospel, lost its power and influence in the consciences and hearts of men? Not for one moment, but it is to be feared that the gospel as preached in thousands of churches fails to be a saving gospel.

Honored of God is any pastor or preacher of the gospel, who can say what was said by the late Phillips Brooks, when after preaching before the now deceased and lamented Queen of England, he was asked what sermon he preached, his reply was, "I have but one sermon and that is Christ." There are three qualities needed in every sermon preached: the ministry of persuasion, the ministry of earnestness and absolute faith in the message delivered, and if the Christ of the gospel permeates these characteristics, there will be enough of gospel truth in every sermon preached to save a soul.

The origin of revival services did not commence with the Christian era, but at some subsequent period, and such is the belief in this institution, that nearly all Christian churches give more credence to this method than to the God established order of sabbath day preaching. One other thought: The church is in part responsible with the ministry in the conversion of the world. Paul was the greatest, the most efficient and learned of all the Apostles in the ministry, yet he felt his need of the prayers of the church, for he says to the Corinthian church, "Brethren pray for us that the word of the Lord may have free course and be glorified." Whenever the ministry and the church are willing to meet God's demands, souls will be saved every Sabbath day, and there will be a daily and continuous revival, and expansion of Christianity in the life of all Christians, and sinners will be converted day by day, instead of at periodical times. G. B.

The Beverlys.

Mr. Frank M. If any of our readers know any thing of this family or of their descendants they will do a favor by writing to Frank M. Beverly, at Freezing, Va.

Wont Eat Crow

Lebanon, Va., Jan. 25—

Editor News:—In your paper of 25th, I see some friend has threatened you with a dish of "crow" in case Swanson is nominated for Governor. In this neck of the woods we don't think you need begin acquiring a taste for this unsavory bird for quite a while. We have no objection to Mr. Swanson—as a representative in Congress from the Danville district, but we do seriously object to the introduction of the peculiar style of politics practiced in the Southside into the Executive office. At a time when the people of Virginia have overcome their innate repugnance to a Constitutional Convention rather than drift further toward the cesspool of machine politics, they will not seriously consider the candidacy of a young man already highly placed who represents nothing to them but the incarnation of machine politics. They are not likely, at a time when measures are pending that will inevitably purge and purify the suffrage, to consider a man seriously who is notoriously the champion of the very evils they seek to abolish. If any sensible man doubts that Mr. Swanson's candidacy is in the interest of "machine" methods, the recent letter upon which you commented so ably last week should easily convince him. Many men regard it as a challenge and menace to the conservative element in the State. How can he expect a nomination otherwise than through the agency of the machine whose creature he is and whose influence was plainly foreshadowed in the tell-tale letter? It is also a challenge on the part of the machine itself and the men who find time to "manage" its minutest details notwithstanding other "duties" for which most of them are paid out of the people's money? I have not heard of any Swanson men in the Southwest, but if your critical friends are of that persuasion prepare them a "bird" of the kind they suggest, and keep it on ice to be served with "warm" bottle to serve after the convention. Respectfully, Rus.

Put In Possession.

Mrs. Jennie Ratliff, who some time ago purchased the Dodd hotel property, which has been rented for some time by J. M. Coffee, and about possession of which there has been a law suit, was yesterday put in possession by order of the court.

Our Agent's Reception.

Dr. Harry, our soliciting agent, has been moving around briskly since January the first. He has been over Eastern portions of the county and has met with good success. We wish to thank all our subscribers for the cordial reception given him. He tells us that there is little or no "kicking," but that everybody receives him kindly. He is doing good work, collecting old and getting new subscriptions, and in a few months we expect to have a clean, paid up subscription list. We are anxious, and in fact, determined to have one of the very best lists of any weekly in the State. We bespeak for Dr. Harry a continuation of the kindness already extended him and we cordially thank our subscribers for their subscriptions. We want every citizen in the county, not already on our list, to give us a trial.

Advice to Borrowers of Newspapers

Some timely advice to borrowers of newspapers is given by the Kansas City Journal in the shape of warning like this:

"A man who was to economical to take this paper sent his little boy to borrow the copy taken by his neighbor. In his haste the boy ran over a $4 stand of bees and in ten minutes looked like a warty summer squash. His cries reached his father, who ran to his assistance and, failing to notice a barbed wire fence, ran into that, breaking it down, cutting a handful of flesh from his anatomy and ruining a $4 pair of pants. The old cow took advantage of the gap in the fence and got into the cornfield and killed herself eating green corn. Hearing the racket, the wife ran, up set a four gallon churn full of rich cream into a basket of kittens, drowning the flock. In the hurry she dropped a $7 set of false teeth. The baby, left alone, crawled through the spilled milk and into the parlor, ruining a brand new $20 carpet. During the excitement the oldest daughter ran away with the hired man, the dog broke up eleven setting hens, and the calves got out and chewed the tails off of four fine shirts."

The Constitutional Convention.

In an interview in the Dispatch, Senator John N. Opie says:

"If we adopt an educational qualification we eliminate the best element among the colored population—that is the respectful, well behaved, polite old time derkey, and we do not reach the new issue—the crapp-er and the idle hang on, who can read and write, but will not work; the fellow who accumulates nothing but has no possessions. He is the man we are after. Therefore I am of the opinion that a small property qualification—say $50. or $100.—will accomplish the object aimed at. Moreover, no constitutional objection to this qualification could be raised."

CONVENTION NEAR

Will Meet June 12. Plans Almost Completed.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 6.—The legislature made great strides in its work today so far as the constitutional convention is concerned. Indeed, the work may now be regarded as practically completed although there are details yet to be arranged but a conference committee is necessary to reconcile differences between the two bodies.

The house yesterday decided upon a representation of one hundred delegates chosen on the plan of the house apportionment with extra delegates delegates distributed according to increase in population.

Today the house decided that any person who is a qualified voter of the State of Virginia shall be eligible to election to the convention.

This action was taken at the end of a hot fight over a resolution offered by Mr. Whitehead, of Norfolk, confining the membership to those not eligible to election to the legislature. This was aimed at the office holders of the State.

It was decided to delegates to the convention shall be chosen on May 27th and elected under the Parker-Walton law. The house fixed June 22nd as the date and Richmond as the place for the assembling of the convention. The pay of the members was fixed at $4 per day.

It was further provided that the results of the constitutional convention shall be submitted to the people for ratification.

The senate after a long debate decided upon a representation of 80 in the convention, two from each senatorial district. This will necessitate the appointment of a committee of conferences and it if thought the senate will agree to the action taken by the house.

The discussion in the house on the resolution of Mr. Whitehead to exclude officeholders from the constitutional convention was most interesting and it was suggested that the passage of such a measure would prevent Senator Jno. W. Daniel from participating. Mr. Whitehead suggested that Major Daniel might temporarily resign his seat in the Senate to take part in the convention.

COAL EXCITEMENT.

Large Quantities Discovered in West Graham. Other News.

Graham, Va., Feb. 6.—The people of West Graham are greatly excited, coal having been found right in their midst. Stony Ridge seems to be one immense vein of coal. It has been estimated that the true worth of the land is not less than thirty thousand dollars an acre. This enormous vein has been traced through the lands belonging to Wm. L. Spracher, Henry Hurt, Mrs. Ritter and Wm. Mullin. The people are anxiously awaiting further developments.

The first term of Graham High School closed Jan. 25. The citizens are well pleased with the work. The session has been pleasant as well as profitable to all connected with it. Judging from appearances, Prof. Lively and his able corps of teachers will be quite busy this, the second term.

Those who believed the furnace would be in full blast by Jan. 1st, now know it was only "campaign talk."

Miss Sue Wagner returned from Bailey Sunday evening.

Robert Beavers, one of Prof. Lively's most intelligent pupils, is quite ill with the measles.

The lingering of holiday customs! A social was held at Mr. Obadiah L. Neel's last Monday night. This was the fifteenth, in West Graham, since Christmas. It is said that they have all been complete successes.

Got His Diploma.

Mr. Wm. Ed. Peery, who in company with Jno. S. Crockett, of Bluefield, went to Cincinnati some weeks ago to take a course in scientific embalming has returned. Mr. Peery, as did also Mr. Crockett, got his diploma as a graduate in the art of embalming. In connection with his business as undertaker this will be of great service to him, as well as to the customers who patronize him, and may wish work in this line.

A POCAHONTAS GHOST.

Water Famine—Insurance Agent Visitors—Other News.

Pocahontas, Va., Feb. 5.—Pocahontas, through the energy and foresight of the Southwest Virginia Improvement Company has one of the best water plants in the State. This company has spent thousands of dollars keeping the inhabitants of the town supplied with pure, healthy limestone water. This plant is situated on one of the most prominent spurs of the flat top, with a reservoir sufficient to supply every family with pure water, and at a small cost, and at the same time the town has one of the best fire companies in the State. The inhabitants lay down at night considering their property secure and protected from fire.

On last Saturday the S. W. Va. Co., and all the citizens of the town had this splendid supply of water cut short off. One of our prominent citizens bought land on which a few feet of the pipe was laid, and sent men and tore up the pipe completely, leaving the inhabitants without water, and the town, in case of fire, perfectly unprotected. Supt. W. O. Malley sent a force of hands and relaid the pipes, giving the town a full supply of water by Sunday morning. There has been injunctions issued in Virginia and West Virginia which will stop any other trouble.

The Pocahontas field was visited by an agent of the Insurance Company, of Philadelphia, and with his close examination, he found efficient men in every department, at the shops, electric light plant, supply house—everything perfectly satisfactory and everything managed as though an agent of the insurance company was present. Under the present management a special agent could not look after the interests of the insurance companies more thoroughly.

A POCAHONTAS GHOST.

On Saturday evening a friend came in about 10 o'clock, just as all were leaving for a stroll down town. "Don't let me detain you," was his remark, "as I will go up stairs and take a sleep." In a short time he heard some noise below, slipped down in his stocking feet to the bottom of the stairs, stopping concluded that he had been dreaming. Started back, when he heard another noise, pushed the room door and standing in the middle of the room was a ghost with a horse collar extending over the forehead, about the size of a small stove pipe. He fainted. Just at time a lady entered the front door, and finding him in this condition, gathered a pitcher of water, the only water on the place, it being a dry day in Pocahontas, dashed it in his face, which revived him. He thought he had fallen in Bluestone. When he revived he found a beautiful white dress in a splendid dotted lady dress, with a very fashionable pompadour hat. Not being satisfied with her looking glass she had come over to consult her young friend as to her make up. My young friend is only seventy years old, and I doubt if he gets another horse collar scare whether he will ask any of the young ladies to marry him or not. The young lady being one of the most beautiful and popular in the town, and her magnificent appearance on this occasion would have made an older man than my young friend faint.

In New York.

Mr. R. Cecil Chapman, a widely known dry goods merchant of Tazewell, left on Thursday afternoon for New York, where he will purchase a large stock of Spring goods. Mr. Chapman has been in the dry goods business but a comparatively short time in Tazewell, but is rapidly forging to the front as one of the leading merchants of this section.

Will Not Move.

The Tazewell correspondent of the Bluefield Daily Advertiser stated in a recent issue, that Drs. Gillespie and Painter had dissolved partnership, and that Dr. Gillespie would move to North Carolina. The report is wholly untrue. Dr. Gillespie will not move away. This will be good news to his many friends in the county with whom he is deservedly popular. We are glad to make the correction, but in justice to ourselves we ought to state that the information came to the Bluefield office through one of the most reliable gentlemen of the county.

Married.

Floyd Gillespie and Miss Belle Lefell, daughter of Jacob Lefell, of Clear Fork, were married quietly on Wednesday morning, in the parlor of the Ratliff hotel. Rev. Philip Johnson performed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Gillespie are well known in Tazewell, and are receiving the congratulations of their many friends.

Order of Publication.

VIRGINIA: In the clerk's office of the Circuit Court for Tazewell county, February 4, 1901. Maud Bell Crockett, Complainant, VS. J. B. Greover, Defendant. The object of this suit is to obtain an absolute divorce from the bonds of matrimony between the complainant and the defendant, and to appear from affidavit on file in said office that said Maud Bell Crockett is a non-resident of the State of Virginia. It is ordered that the publication of this order in this suit and that a copy thereof be posted as prescribed by law. H. A. CROCKETT, Clerk.
